

COME

EXPLORE THE

MONSTROUS

D'ANGELO CENTER

SATURDAY, MARCH 9, 2013

11:00—4:30

Keynote Address: Dr. Stephen Sicari

“Never such Innocence Again’: A Reading of The Road”

Panels:

Gaps, Graffiti, and Genealogy: Reading the Symbolic Spaces

Frankensteinian Fragmentation and Social Fracturing

Dogs, Vampires, and the Undead:
Human and Nonhuman in 19th-century British Literature

‘Imaginary Homelands’ and Cultural Transmission

“I don’t want to look at something that determines me so completely”:
The Body Politic in 20th-century Literature

Pedagogical Disparities between Formative and Higher Education: Techniques that Bridge the Monstrous Divide

“This is where the serpent lives.../ This is his poison:”

"An Intruder on the Rights of Men":
Complicating Portrayals of Femininity in 18th- and 19th-century English Texts

Presenters represent:

Boston University, University of Pennsylvania, University of London, University of Texas,
Rutgers University, St. John’s University, Purdue University, University of Hong Kong